Restrictions on Club Sport are Strangling the Chartered Club Industry

Media Release, Clubs New Zealand 27 September 2021

If the Alert Level restrictions are not eased soon, we will see clubs closing their doors for good, says Clubs New Zealand.

"Clubs have continually supported the measures put in place to stop the spread of COVID-19, however, the current restrictions, which prohibit most club activities, including sports are strangling our clubs and reducing them to nothing more than food and beverage outlets", says Chief Executive Larry Graham.

"We are incredibly concerned with how quickly the guidance can change and the inconsistent approach to enforcement. Our member clubs are doing everything they can to create a safe and welcoming environment in compliance with the Public Health Order, and yet, we are hearing reports daily of other venues operating with full bar service and little physical distancing. It is becoming increasingly difficult for clubs to enforce the restrictions when customers can "go down the road" and not be restricted.

"When the country (excluding Auckland) moved to Alert Level 2 the guidance provided that recreational and sporting activities such as pool, snooker, darts and bowls could resume within clubs (with restriction) as they have under previous instances of Alert Level 2. Since then, the guidance has been reviewed multiple times, with clubs being told that sports were prohibited, then allowed, and then once again prohibited all within the space of one day. The reason these activities are prohibited within a club is the food and beverage rules which requires customers to be seated at a table at all times.

"The loss of club activities such as pool, snooker, darts, and bowls has severely restricted club operations with many of our member clubs reporting a reduction in trade of 80% or more at Alert Level 2. Clubs within the Auckland region have advised Clubs New Zealand that they are better off remaining closed at Alert Level 3, then trying to operate at such a reduced capacity at Alert Level 2.

"Clubs New Zealand believes that the loss of these activities coupled with the frequent changes to guidance has resulted in an increase in abuse towards club employees and volunteers. We are receiving daily reports of abuse towards club employees which is a serious health and safety concern on top of the concern posed by covid. The average New Zealander is not privy to the Public Health Order or varying interpretations of covid guidance, and therefore does not understand that their sporting and recreational activities (which are critical to their sense of health and wellbeing) are not permitted because their club is licensed under the Sale and Supply of Alcohol Act.

"Clubs are telling us that members are not coming back under this instance of Alert Level 2, because their sport and recreational activities are not available.

"Chartered Clubs do not operate for the primary purpose of the sale and supply of alcohol, but rather to conduct, administer and maintain a club for its members. The current Alert Level 2 restrictions and in particular the requirements placed on food and drink businesses reduce a club to a food and beverage service and fails to acknowledge the club's primary purpose, simply because it holds a club licence.

"Recreational and sporting activities are a fundamental part of club life and should not be confused with "pub games". Recreational and sporting activities within clubs are the home to New Zealand's amateur sports covering codes such as 8-ball, darts, billiards and snooker, indoor and outdoor bowls, table tennis, golf, fishing and more. These activities are member-based activities (i.e., they are not open to the public) and are the basis for more than 50 regional and national sporting tournaments a year. Recreational and sporting activities play a major role in preventing social isolation among our members and are critical in preventing the negative impacts Covid-19 is having on our members mental health and wellbeing.

"Clubs New Zealand understands that initially there was a greater need for caution in response to delta, however, we are now urging the Government to ease the restrictions and allow recreational and sporting activities to be conducted under the Alert Level 2 settings as they have under previous instances of Alert Level 2. To date Clubs New Zealand has received no response from the Covid Response Minister.

"Clubs New Zealand strongly believes that allowing recreational and sporting activities to resume within a club setting will not increase the risk of covid transmission but will instead go some way to alleviate the negative impacts covid has on mental health and wellbeing among club employees, volunteers, and members.

Summer of BOWLS

BARFOOT THOMPSON & CO.
LICENSED REAA 2008

Birkenhead Branch

The Dog House

Our irregular columnist Mike Cartwright with one man's perspective on the sport of bowls. The views and opinions expressed here are those of the author's and do not necessarily represent or reflect the views of Birkenhead Bowling Club.

Well it's been about five weeks since we started Jacinda's enforced holiday. If this was a normal bowls year then we would be four weeks into the bowls season and there would have been countless marriage break-ups and a number of club titles dished out to all those that, according to the others, were lucky. Mentally I'm still a dickhead and I'm plying myself with ethanol (alcohol)...yes it powers rockets...but does little to lift me out of the doldrums of a lockdown. I'm so bored I've enrolled in a L3 Turf course to study grass and see if I can produce enough of it to send to our beloved PM so she has something to chew on when she's giving a press conference. Anyway less of the verbal diarrhoea and onto part two of my sport prowess.

Part Two

And so it began, my quest to play in the Metropolitan Police 1st team and cement my reputation in folklore. As you can see I wasn't your typical rugby player, I was fit, maybe not in a physical sense but that didn't bother me because by the time most of the gorillas got to the breakdown I had cleared the ball from the ruck and it was on the way to the other side of the field. I wanted to be the Kevin Eveleigh of the Metropolitan Police rugby team and at the time I wasn't tracking too badly. I was a good boy, attending all the training and drinking with the right people...and...keeping up my running. In the early part of the season I settled into the second team playing at my blindside flanker and cementing my spot with some devastating performances...I'm over-exaggerating but its my blog. Late in October we were travelling up to a place called Nuneaton with the first team for a double header. I was approached by the coach who asked me if I had heard of a guy called John Gallagher. Apparently this guy had played for Wellington in New Zealand and was supposed to be good. He can't be that good I said to the coach, he plays for Wellington. Gallagher had just joined the Metropolitan Police and started at the Hendon police college. My task on the bus trip was to find out as much as I could about the up-start and report back. On the trip up

I sat next to John Gallagher and interrogated him using my three year's experience in the British police. I threw a few names at him but unfortunately he knew them all.....maybe he is the real deal, or maybe my interrogation techniques were shit, I suspected the later ! Also returning from injury was the 1st team captain Paul Ackford. They were giving Ackford a run with us before moving him back to the 1st team the next week. We gave Nuneaton a bath and I made Gallagher and Ackford look pretty ordinary, or so I thought. Both teams won and we headed back to London on the team bus with our mouths wrapped around a few beers. Unfortunately for us we were reasonably serious and never had any bus girls travelling with us.....that's the price you pay for trying to play seriously. I obviously made an impression with Ackford because the following week I was promoted to the 1st team. As far as I was concerned I had reached the pinnacle of my rugby playing career and I was going to cement my spot for the next few years with a good display... or so I thought.

The following week we travelled to New Brighton in Liverpool. I continued my interrogation of Gallagher to no avail...I gave up when he told me he was a good mate of Murray Mexted !!. So there I was packing down with the best players the Metropolitan Police had to offer. I ran out proud as punch and ready to give my all in the name of my reputation. But, as I was about to find out the stands were full of parochial scouse's who were about to clip my wings and send my rugby career plummeting back into the doldrums..... Until next time
